Speak-Up & Whistleblower Policy

How to report financial, integrity, safety, data or conduct concerns safely — re channels, anonymity, investigation and anti-retaliation.

VERSION	V1.4
EFFECTIVE	01 JUL 2025
FOR	ALL EMPLOYEES
CLASSIFICATION	INTERNAL / ALL EMPLOYEES

Most issues are best raised openly through your manager or HR. This policy exists for the ones that are not: concerns you cannot comfortably raise on your own because they involve seniority, confidentiality or the possibility that the normal channels themselves are part of the problem.

1. What belongs here

- Financial irregularity or fraud — falsified invoices, expense abuse, fake vendors, kickbacks.
- Data or privacy misuse — patient or client data being shared or mishandled against policy.
- Legal or regulatory breach — violations of employment, health, safety or industry regulation.
- Conduct of concern — harassment that you could not report through the usual route, or improper instruction from a senior person.

Payroll errors, leave disputes and ordinary workplace friction are quicker through an HR ticket; the whistleblower channel is not a fast lane but a safe one.

2. How to report

Channel	Best for	Identified?
HR Desk portal (ticket to category 'Policy')	Most concerns, tracked response	Identified, visible to HR team
Email to the Compliance mailbox (compliance@emids)	Sensitive conduct matters	Identified, only Compliance + Chair of Audit Committee
Post under sealed cover addressed to the Chair, Audit Committee, at the compliance office	Matters involving very senior leadership	You may remain anonymous

3. Anonymous reports

Anonymous complaints are accepted and investigated with the same seriousness, with one caution: they are difficult to close without going back to you for detail. Where you can, share what you know precisely — dates, documents, names — and keep a personal record of what you reported and when.

4. What happens next

- Acknowledgement within 5 working days; an initial assessment decides whether a full investigation is warranted.
- Investigations are conducted by people without a conflict of interest, with documents preserved from the start.
- Findings reach the disciplinary process where warranted; substantiated financial findings are also reported to the Audit Committee.
- You receive a closure summary — enough to know the matter was examined — without exposing others' personal data.

5. Protection against retaliation

Retaliation — demotion, exclusion, poor review outcomes, transfers used as punishment — for an honest report is itself serious misconduct and is treated as a separate complaint. This protection extends to witnesses and to people who participate in investigations of others' reports. Recommendations made with malicious intent or knowingly false information are not protected.

> If you believe you are being retaliated against, say so in writing to HR immediately — the protection ratchets up the moment retaliation is alleged.
