Attendance & Working Hours Policy

Working hours, flexible start windows, shift and on-call rules, biometric attend and how attendance exceptions get regularised.

Standard full-time hours at Emids Technologies are 9 hours per day (including 1 hour break), 5 days a week. Within office and team norms, you may slide your start time within a flexible window; your team roster is the authority for exact working hours.

1. Working hours and flexibility

Parameter	Standard
Weekly hours	40–45 hours across 5 days
Flexible start window	08:00–10:30 local, end time slides accordingly
Team core hours	11:00–16:00 — when overlap is expected
Break	1 hour (~ any pattern: lunch + short breaks)

2. Recording attendance

Attendance is captured by swipe / biometric at office and by badge-in on the virtual tracker for WFH days. Forgotten swipes are regularised once a month with manager confirmation — occasional forgetfulness stays out of performance conversation unless it becomes a pattern.

3. Late marks, half-days and early departures

- Arriving more than 15 minutes past your rostered start is a late mark; 3 late marks in a month equal one half-day leave.
- Leaving a stretch 2+ hours early (with no applied leave) counts 0.5 day of Casual Leave.
- Client-site travel days are recorded by your manager from the client visit note.

4. Shifts and on-call

Night and shifted roles receive shift allowances per the compensation policy. On-call responsibilities require pre-agreed rotations, rest periods between shifts, and compensation as per the client contract. Night work follows statutory rules on hours, rest breaks and safety transport where they apply.

5. Overtime

Non-managerial roles under eligible bands are paid or queued overtime for approved work beyond 45 hours a week; approvals come before the hours worked. Overtime is exceptional, not a default way to close gaps — pre-approved and properly recorded.

6. Exceptions and regularisation

Missed swipes, offline days, client visits and travel: raise a regularisation ticket with date, facts and expected hours. Regularisations cross-checked by HR team within 5 working days, before payroll cut-off of the same month.

> Your login time is not a productivity metric. Presence is governed by outcomes and hours; if your hours are being recomputed wrongly, raise the ticket — the numbers matter only when they are right.
